The property tax millage rate in Beaufort County, South Carolina, varies depending on the location and specific tax district within the county. Millage rates are determined annually by the County Council and other governing bodies to fund various services and budgets.

For 2024, Beaufort County's overall property tax millage includes components such as county operations, school taxes, and any applicable municipal or special-purpose district taxes. The total millage typically ranges from 150 to 200 mills, depending on the property's location and purpose (e.g., primary residence, rental, or commercial) .

To get an accurate calculation for a specific property, you can use the Beaufort County Tax Calculator or review the millage rates for each tax district through the county's auditor's office .